The Mysterious Medallion Hoard

Finder: John B., Canada

Using: ACE Apex

Find: John shares, "About 5 years ago, I was metal detecting the shallow water along the North Saskatchewan River with my buddy Barry, when each of us dug up a baseball medallion. A cool find it was, probably from the 1940s-1950s era. We assumed a bunch of baseball players headed down to the river after winning a game, drank a few beers, had a swim, and somehow, perhaps clowning around, they lost their medallions. We just happened to get lucky with our Garrett AT Pros finding these. Little did we know that a find of a lifetime was just waiting for us several years later.

"I prospect this river for gold and have been doing so for over 30 years. This river has been hit hard by men searching for gold using rockers, large dredges, and modern-day highbankers for over 100 years. Every spring, summer, and fall I have scoured the gravels in the river using my gold pan, rocker, fluid bed concentrator, and highbanker. This fall, as per usual, the water flow from the mountains became less, so the river became more shallow. This is always welcomed, as it gives us prospectors the opportunity to reach out further into the river, and usually get some decent amounts of flour gold from new gravel bars.

"One recent day I headed down to the river with my highbanker to do some prospecting. I also brought along my latest metal detector, Garrett ACE Apex to detect the now shallow water further out in the river after some prospecting. I shoveled gravel into my highbanker for about four hours, then shut down my water pump. Too tired from digging, I grabbed my Garrett ACE Apex and began searching the shallow areas of the river. My searchcoil searched underwater to depths down to about 12 inches. I managed a few pennies, a nice 10k gold band, and 13 of these sports medallions. They were easy to identify. The VDI was between 70 - 90, and the iron audio ruled out iron junk, of which there is plenty of. These medallions were of great interest to me...why all these medallions? Perhaps they hitched a ride on an ice pack during spring melt. I went back to the river the following day, ventured out even further, and 'Surprise!' 26 more medallions. I even dug up some new varieties not previously found. I notified my buddy Barry about this ever-growing hoard, and he agreed to come out the following day to help retrieve some of these new treasures. After wading out in the freezing water wearing hip waders, we found another astonishing 38 medallions, and again, found some more different varieties! This is just insane! Where did they come from? I again called Barry, and he and I again went back to the forever-giving medallion spot, and again between the two of us, we got another 93 medallions! So, that brings up a final total of 175 medallions to date. We were cold, tired, and just plain worn out. Finding these medallions using an average-sized shovel was already challenging. We will continue metal detecting this river next year when the river depth decreases to a safe level again. Even more medallions!

"So, where did all of these medallions come from? Were they stolen and dumped into the river? Did they get dumped from a boat capsizing? Were they extra stock dumped into the river? ...and if so, why did they not get buried on land, or sold as scrap metal? Who-What-Where-When-Why? Some were silver-plated...some were gold-plated, some were made out of white metal. Searching the internet, I dated these medallions to the 1940s and 1950s.

Why were the majority team - sports-related, yet there were some representing public speaking, science, chess, canoeing, bicycling, and academia? Is there perhaps a connection with the University, which sits not too far from this site above the river valley? Maybe they have been stolen from a delivery vehicle? There are nearly as many questions now as there are medallions.

"My soon-to-be long, cold dark winter up here in Canada will give me some time to further research where this hoard of medallions came from. Perhaps I'll connect with the University, speak with some local trophy manufacturing companies, and perhaps a trip to the local City of Edmonton Archives for some further research is in order. I need to find out more about this hoard."

Garrett Metal Detectors Presents

OPOC Awards

What is OPOC? OPOC stands for Outstanding Police Officer of the Community. It is an annual award that recognizes an outstanding police officer who has gone above and beyond the call of duty to give back to the community. This award was created in 2015 by retired Garland, TX police officer Kevin Schoch and Vaughan Garrett. It is presented at the Police Softball World Series in Las Vegas, Nevada where the final round of playoffs is held.

Vaughan Garrett, Senior Vice President of Marketing from Garrett Metal Detectors, selects the OPOC recipient from reading numerous submissions provided to him from various police departments and individuals throughout the United States. Kevin Schoch said, "This award has started a new tradition in police softball that will long outlive us. And we appreciate Garrett for its excellent products and supporting this great organization."

This year's OPOC award recipient is Dan McIntyre from Woodridge, Illinois. Among the numerous contributions to his community, Dan raised over $400,000 for the athletes of Special Olympics.

In addition to the OPOC award, Garrett sponsors the annual Dr. Charles Garrett Memorial Home Run Derby, which is also held in Las Vegas at the time of the police softball playoffs, and was crowned to Jake Reuvers from the Minnesota Lawmen. Jeff Blair, director of Police Softball said, "The tournament was a huge success! 78 teams competed, with over 1,000 law enforcement officers. And Kevin did a great job representing Garrett Metal Detectors."

Throughout the years, Garrett Metal Detectors has sponsored numerous sporting events and teams. Beginning in 2015 Garrett has continually sponsored Police Softball. Vaughan Garrett states, "We have an association with law enforcement that goes way beyond supplying products to scan for weapons. We get involved in the financial support so these officers can enjoy a competitive and recreational opportunity with their colleagues. This is our way of giving back to those officers who fight crime daily, and we thank them for protecting and serving citizens all across the United States."

Garrett's Code of Detecting Ethics

Charles Garrett always urged his fellow searchers to conduct themselves as responsible treasure hunters and to leave their hunt areas in better condition than they found them. Please follow your local directives during the current health crisis, but when you are able to safely enjoy detecting, here are just a few of his keys to good conduct in the field:

- Never trespass or hunt on private property without permission.
- National and state parks/monuments, etc. are absolutely off-limits.
- Always fill in every hole that you dig.
- Do not leave litter or other discarded junk items lying around.
- Always carry out all rubbish and dug targets with you when you leave a search area.
- Use reasonable caution in digging toward any target, particularly in areas where you are uncertain of the ground conditions.
- Keep informed on and obey all local and national legislation relating to the discovery and reporting of found treasures.
